Identity and Storytelling Text Set

Essential Question: What makes me, me? What story do I want to tell about who I am and what matters to me?

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Lessons</th>
<th>Guiding Questions</th>
<th>Texts and Materials</th>
</tr>
</thead>
</table>
| Authoring My Identity (2 days)          | • Who am I? What are the many factors that make me, me?                           | Video: My Honest Poem
Reading: My Honest Poem
Reading: Authoring Identity
Reading: Authoring Identity (Adapted Version)
Handout: Text-to-Text, Text-to-Self, Text-to-World
Handout: My Honest Poem Sentence Starters |
| Students explore the costs and benefits that come with sharing aspects of their identities. Then they discuss an informational text that introduces the concept of “narrative identity,” and they apply these concepts to their own original poem. | • What stories about myself do I choose to share with others, and what do I keep private? |                                                                                     |
| Why Identity Matters (2 days)           | • What are we talking about when we talk about identity?                          | Image: [Untitled: Four Etchings [A]](#)
Image: [Untitled: Four Etchings [B]](#)
Reading: Exploring the Concept of Identity
Reading: Exploring the Concept of Identity (Adapted Version)
Handout: Social Identity Wheel
Handout: Complexity of Identity Exit Card |
| Students reflect on how aspects of their identities are more visible or felt in certain situations and then consider how their membership in certain social groups can influence their sense of self, how they perceive others, and how others may perceive them. | • What dilemmas arise when others view us differently from how we view ourselves? |                                                                                     |
Stories of Identity and Belonging (2 days)
Students apply the concepts of narrative, personal, and social identity to their reading of four personal narrative essays. Then they synthesize key learning from this text set in order to consider what factors can make it challenging for young people to be who they really want to be in the world.

- Which aspects of my identity, if any, are fixed, and which ones are more fluid?
- What can make it challenging to be who I really want to be in the world? How can I navigate or rise above these challenges?

Handout: Storytelling Sketch to Stretch
Reading: AJ from Washington, DC
Reading: Lauren from Providence, RI
Reading: My Dell Hid My Privilege and My Mac Hid My Financial Need
Reading: How Assimilation Changed My Identification with My Culture

Handout: Personal Narrative Connection Questions

Cultivating Identity Literacy (1 day)
Students reflect on the assumptions people make about them and then learn about a project created by two young women engaged in conversations across the country about identity, race, and culture. Students discuss the challenges of sharing identity stories and consider with their peers ways to overcome these challenges.

- How can we talk with each other across our differences?
- What would need to happen in your classroom for students to feel like they could share personal stories about who they are and what they believe with their friends, peers, and adults?

Video: Lessons of Cultural Intimacy
Handout: The Challenge of Sharing Soul Stories Discussion